

Brick and Mortar cocktail from The Key Club. Opposite page: Buffalo sauce from Dirty French.

10 Best New Restaurants in Miami

Dirty French

New from Major Food Group, this elevated steakhouse delivers all the classics with the inimitable MFG flair. From chicken and crepes to Cajun snapper or an indulgent wagyu tomahawk, you're promised to receive a five-star hospitality experience in one of Miami's sexiest settings. 1200 Brickell Ave., Miami, dirtyfrench.com

The Key Club

The latest in Groot Hospitality's ever-expanding portfolio, this Coconut Grove-based eatery offers the best of elevated American cuisine—think chips and caviar, crab and artichoke dip, and steak frites—all in an alluring setting indicative of Groot Hospitality's brand ethos. 3015 Grand Ave., Coconut Grove, thekeyclub.com

Abbalè Telavivian Kitchen

Quickly becoming one of the city's most coveted restaurants for genuine Israeli fare, chef Samuel Gorenstein introduces Miami to the rich flavors of Israel, Turkey, Greece and Colombia at his beloved Abbalè Telavivian Kitchen. 864 Commerce St., Miami Beach, abbalokitchen.com

Moloko

Sunset Harbour's newest Paris transplant is not only one of the most beautiful destinations in town but also one of the most delicious, dishing out Asian-Mediterranean cuisine from Miami's famed chef Jose Mendin. 1801 West Ave., Miami Beach, molokomiami.com

Chug's

Taking on the theme of a Cuban American diner, Chug's invites the Coconut Grove neighborhood to savor a decadently curated brunch, flavorful burgers, fresh pastries and beyond while nestled in an elegant yet comfortable sanctuary. 3444 Main Highway, Ste. 21, Miami, chugsdiner.com