

How To Spend The Perfect Fall Day In Coconut Grove

If you are just visiting or a seasoned resident, you will likely spend a lot of time in the iconic neighborhood of South Florida's Coconut Grove. Referred to by locals as simply "The Grove," this community is an ever-evolving hub defined by its rich history, Cuban-influenced cuisine, art, and stunning scenery. Visitors and natives alike can experience a taste of Old Miami while walking The Grove's narrow streets. Here is how to spend a relaxing day away from the tall towers and tourists like a true Miamian.

CocoWalk

3015 Grand Ave / Website

After reading pages from your favorite novel, you deserve some shopping. CocoWalk is the perfect place for some retail therapy. This unique modern village is located in the center of the Grove and is defined by its incorporation of leafy nature. Inspired by the lush gardens of Coconut Grove, this space is designed for a truly relaxing purchasing experience. Fill your bags at the wide variety of independent boutiques and popular favorites. After, enjoy lunch outside at the many cafes equipped with patio seating or indulge in popcorn during a show at the 16-screen cinema. With frequent rickshaw rides and live entertainment, it's hard not to have fun here.