Taylor Swift is bringing her Eras Tour to theaters this week, and if you missed out on tickets to her Tampa show or are too impatient to wait for her upcoming Miami stop (perhaps you were waitlisted like us), you'll get the chance to see her perform on the big screen!

Come Oct. 13, 'Taylor Swift The Eras Tour Film' will bring 2 hours and 48 minutes of non-stop fun, music and memories from the record-breaking tour, with viewers encouraged to dress up and sing along:

And while many theaters screening the film will be offering collectible cups and popcorn tubs in honor of the screening, Cinépolis at CocoWalk is offering something a little extra special. On premiere day, fans will be able to snack on an exclusive menu of “Taylor’s favorite things” along with two signature cocktails that will make everyone feel Fearless.

There will also be a DJ setup from 7 to 9 p.m. on the third floor, as well as a backdrop for the perfect pics to show off your best Eras attire!

But most importantly, throughout opening weekend, there will be a bracelet-making station for Swifties to truly create something special and exchange with fellow fans. This sounds like our Wildest Dreams coming true.

Cinépolis will also have giveaways to see the film, plus a happy hour experience at a secret location. You can learn more on their Instagram here.

To quote Miss Swift, all we can say is “I don’t know how it gets better than this.” Find out more book your tickets to a screening here.
